Dump Site, Corporation Yard OK'd by Council

by Gunnar Norberg

Main item on last night's City Council agenda concerned possible acquisition of a city dump site and a city corporation yard by a single land purchase.

In connection with this matter, cost of city-hauling or contract-hauling of landfill materials to existing or proposed dump sites was also considered.

However the recommendation in a report made by the Council's ad hoc committee on the combination dump-site, corporation yard problem was unanimously approved by the four Council members who were present, and this committee report directs City Administrator Hugh Bayless to negotiate for cost of access to, and acquisition of, 25 acres of the Fish Ranch property for use as a combined dump-site, corporation-yard facility.

The four Council members who acted on this matter were Mayor Barney Laiolo and Councilmen Herbert Blanks, Frank Falge, and Ken Brown. (Councilman Eben Whittlesey was absent, but Mayor Laiolo said that he had been informed and that he was in agreement with the report's recommendations.)

Eleven sites had been considered by the ad hoc committee composed of Blanks and Falge, Street Superintendent William Askew, City Engineer Clayton Neill and former Councilman William Sefton.

Possible sites were located outside Carmel's city limits, as the Fish Ranch site is, and includes areas both east and west of state Highway

Palo Colorado Open House Well Attended

The little white school house near Palo Colorado Canyon, high up above the sparkling Pacific and midway between Carmel and Big Sur was fighting for its life on Sunday.

Parents of the twenty school children who wish to attend the recently closed school held an open house outside the school, hoping to interest the community in reopening it.

No member of the school board or school district arrived but more than 100 friends of the school signed a petition which will be circulated.

Classes are being held out of doors, in the meantime, by experienced teachers.

A complete set of school books were donated by an anonymous Carmel Highlands resident, said Norman Godbe, chairman of the Palo Colorado Parents Association.

The first meeting will be held on Saturday, Sept. 21, at 9:30 a.m., at the Recreation Department Community Center, 515 Junipero and 14th Street, Pacific Grove. After the preliminary discussion, the class will proceed to the ocean for the identification of water birds. Binoculars are advisable.

AN ARCHITECT'S model of Control Building and antenna, being erected at the earth station site near Jamesburg, Calif. in upper Carmel Valley.

Hi-12s Hear Area Satellite Head

More than 100 members and guests of the Carmel High 12 Club heard Robert E. Sageman, area chief engineer for the American Telegraph and Telephone Company, describe the new satellite tracking and communications station being erected in Carmel Valley.

The group also welcomed Louis Black, president of the California Association of High 12 Clubs, who described state-wide club functions.

Sageman told the group of the purposes of the California Earth Station and the scope of its capabilities.

He pointed out that the earth station will serve as a major new link for service overseas in the Pacific area, and will be an integral part of the expanding global systems of commercial space communications.

Construction on the earth station was started in October of last year and will be completed before the end of 1968.

The 97-foot wide parabolic dish antenna will, when the station is completed become an area landmark. The antenna, now in place, is taller than a 10-story building.

The station will be capable of handling and processing all types of overseas communications via satellite— multi - channel telephone, telephone, facsimile, data, and both color and black and white television.

Olof Dahlstrand On Commission

With the seating of its newest member, Olof Dahlstand yesterday afternoon the Carmel Planning Commission is at full strength again. Dahlstrand, who is a well-known local architect, succeeds the late George Willox on the Commission.

Born in Wisconsin, the son of Swedish parents, Dahlstrand was brought up in the Milwaukee area where he received his early schooling. Having decided upon a career, he enrolled at Cornell University where he received his degree in architecture following completion of the 5-year curriculum in that subject.

Following private practice of architecture in Milwaukee, Dahlstrand moved to San Francisco in 1948, and in 1959 came to Carmel where he opened his own office and where he continues practice of his profession.

Married — his wife's name is Jean—he is the father of two adult sons — Peter who resides in Berkeley, and Allen, in Butte, Montana — neither of whom chose architecture as a career.

Asked about interests or hobbies outside his profession, Dahlstrand mentioned sketching water colors, cabinet-making, and wood-carving — all of which fits him into the creative Carmel mold.

MPMAA Art Competition

"Monterey County Painting—1968," the fifth annual competitive show sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Association, is scheduled for Oct. 11 through Nov. 2.

Judging of this year's show is in the capable hands of John De Vincenzi, professor of art at San Jose State College.

Well - known throughout California as a superb competition judge, he has, in the past 15 years, juried more than 40 shows in the central California region, including the first Monterey Arts and Crafts Festival in 1966.

Selected specifically because of his broad viewpoint and discerning eye, DeVincenzi is respected for his knowledge, experience, and lack of bias towards any one style, technique or media. A painter in both oil and watercolour, he has won many prizes and awards in both Traditional and Abstract categories.

He has also had numerous one-man shows, including one in Lucca, Italy, during his year's painting sabbatical there in 1964-65. DeVincenzi received his BA from San Jose State College and his MA from Stanford University, and currently serves as art chairman of the Fine Arts Commission of San Jose. He has also been guest-lecturer at the Salinas Art League on five separate occasions over the past few years, and has a one-man show at Hartnell College in the 1950's.

This annual competitive show was originated as a "Show of Excellence": a prestige exhibition of the best paintings produced in Monterey County during the previous year. The responsibility of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Association and the judge is to give the county the best-rounded, most professionally excellent show possible from the entries submitted. The responsibility of the area artists is to all participate and submit their very best, so that a truly representative show will result. Paintings will be judged on merit alone, and not by category.

Entry blanks have been mailed to those artists who have submitted entries in past years; however, if any artist has not yet received his entry blank, they are available from the Museum on Lincoln in Carmel (P.O. Box 4807), or by phoning 624-2918.

Paintings will be received on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Oct. 2, 3, and 4 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and are limited to one entry per person not previously exhibited locally.

Three prizes of $300 each will be awarded. In addition, one of the winners will be given a one-man show at the Museum in July of 1969.

Prize money is raised through contributions from individuals and firms who are interested in recognizing and encouraging the best painting being done in Monterey County.

Artists whose paintings are chosen will be honored at a "Meet the Artists" preview and champagne reception to be held Thursday, Oct. 10 from 6 to 8 p.m. the evening before the exhibition goes on public view. Invitations will be sent to all $25 sponsors, and all associated members and friends who request tickets at $5 apiece. Please call the museum for reservations, and for any additional information.

Moesle Shows At Museum of Art

by Louise Cook

Robert Moesle is the featured artist at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art on Lincoln St. for the next three weeks.

There are 24 examples of Moesle's work on display. These are mostly water colors plus a few drawings.

Moesle is an excellent draftsman, color being secondary in his paintings. It is incidental to the composition and idea represented. There are several provacative, dream-like impressions that seem to strongly indicate a message from the artist but the titles give no clue to the maining.

The carousel horses are the most outstanding in the show and provide a happy contrast with some of the other rather puzzling and depressing pictures.

Robert Moesle is a comparatively young artist, born in 1932 in San Jose. Beside a BA in Art at San Jose State College, he has studied three yars at Oxford University in England. He expects shortly to return to Europe to study and paint.

Moesle's work is also exhibited at the Perry House Gallery in Monterey.

New TV Station

A new TV station, WMST-TV, Channel 46, of which Stoddard P. Johnston, of Carmel, owner of K-WAVE and KMBY Radio stations, is president, will be on the air on the Monterey Peninsula by February.

It has just been awarded CBS primary network affiliation, and the network transfer from Channel 8 in Salinas will take place no later than February.

Under construction on Mt. Toro, site of K-WAVE, it will transmit at one and a half million watts, the most powerful station in Central California.

The studio will be in Monterey on the Salinas Highway, near the airport.

In full color, the station will have special microwave service from San Francisco which will afford better picture and sound.

Larson Field

The Little League field on the grounds of the Junipero Serra school at the Carmel Mission will be dedicated in the memory of Larry Larson, who was killed on Easter Sunday while serving with the Marines in Vietnam.

The field will be dedicated by Bishop Harry A. Clinch of the Monterey Diocese, and Monsignor James Marron of the Carmel Mission Basilica will speak in memory of Larry Larson.

Larson attended the Mission School, and then attended a Catholic Seminary for five years before joining the Marines.

The Carmel Mission Fiesta Committee is sponsoring the dedication of the four acres south of the Church, which the committee finances for improvements and upkeep.

Members of the parish and the community are invited to attend the ceremonies which begin at 2 p.m., Sept. 22.

BUSY CLASS—A Carmel Adult Education Class sketches busily under the watchful eye of Bernice Huber noted Western painter. Miss Huber is opening a class in oil painting to go with the classes in watercolor and sketching she now teaches for the Carmel Unified Schools' Adult Education Department.

Oil Painting Class for Adults

Carmel watercolorist Bernice Huber, well known throughout the western states for her outstanding painting and brilliant stoneware, has been teaching water color and sketching in the Carmel Adult School.

Now she is adding oil painting, and residents of the Carmel Uinfied School District are invited to enroll for her classes.

Miss Huber was born on a ranch in Oregon and attended school in Portland. She studied at the Chouinard School of Art in Los Angeles and later attended the University of Washington.

She came to Carmel in 1952 and set up a studio, then later moved to Sedona, Ariz., where she was an exhibiting member of the Arizona Designer-Craftsmen Association.

Returning to Carmel in 1960, Miss Huber has been painting and teaching since. Her works have been seen in Oregon, Washington and Arizona as well as California. She can currently be seen at the Seven Seas Gallery in Carmel and the Upper Echelon in Sausalito.

Last April, Miss Huber, in conjunction with three local artists, Lucile Herbert, Stan Spohn and Jean Hofsas, formed the Carmel Valley Artists Co-op Gallery. Beginning Sept. 20, Miss Huber's paintings will be featured in an outdoor exhibit, an on-the-fence, under-the-oaks type of thing at the Co-op Gallery opposite the post office in Carmel Valley Village, 12 miles from Highway 1.

And for further information about Miss Huber's new oil painting classes, call the Carmel Adult Education program at 624-1714.

Art Competition

An Art Competition and exhibit will be held at the University of Santa Clara's de Saisset Art Gallery from Sept. 25 to Sept. 30. General theme is "Peace." A total of $1700 will be awarded in prizes.

The exhibit will open Oct. 14 and run through Nov. 4, Tuesday through Friday, 10 to 5, and Saturday and Sunday, 1 to 5.

SUNSET NOTES

By Dr. James E. Gilman

Those who attended the recent Opera Workshop performance at the Forest Theatre must have come away pleased and thrilled with the quality of the presentation of Nancy Ness Bowman and her associates. Perhaps there were some who wished that they might be part of such a group, but who for one reason or another were just a little timid about pursuing it further.

Beginning next Monday, Sept. 23 at 7:30 p.m. and each Monday thereafter, Miss Bowman will conduct practice sessions in the Music Room at Carmel High School.

At these times auditions will be given to singers who may wish to join the Workshop. Previous musical experience is desirable but not necessary. These practice sessions lead to several concerts during the season including a performance planned for Sunset Theatre later this year.

The Opera Workshop was founded in 1960 by Miss Bowman with a small group of her students. Although a professional voice teacher and a former star of the concert stage and the opera, Miss Bowman makes no charge for her time and energy in directing the Opera Workshop. "My great desire," she says, "is to interest young people in good music and to help those with talent whose goal is the concert and opera stage."

A professional accompanist is present at each of the practice sessions. Each student is asked to contribute 50c per evening to help defray the cost of the accompanist. Workshop members have agreed that this is a very small fee for the benefits they obtain by their participation.

During the past several years the Workshop has appeared in many places including the Monterey USO, The Friends of Music Society of Salinas, The Carmel Foundation Town House, the Hacienda Carmel, The Elks Club, The Carmel Valley Manor, All Saint's Church of Carmel, The Forest Hill Manor, The Canterbury Woods, The White Oaks Theatre, The Church of The Wayferer in Carmel, Timothy Lutheran Church, and the Forest Theatre. These performances are given without any fee to the sponsoring organizations.

Participants in the Workshop are enthusiastic over their experiences. Not only do they enjoy the singing, both singly and as a group, but they have felt also that they have acquired musical knowledge hardly obtainable in any other way. Further, they have a great satisfaction in the recognition of what they have accomplished, and in the pleasure they have given to so many others.

A native of Norway, Nancy Ness Bowman has sung in many of the leading opera houses in Europe. She is well known for her interpretation of the music of Edward Greig, German Lieder, and as a leading soloist with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra. She was awarded the St. Olaf's Medal by the King of Norway for her work during the World War II.

REPORTS FROM RLS

By Peter Meckel

A host of fine new faculty members and an enthusiastic student body greet the new academic year at the Robert Louis Stevenson School.

Amid the clattering hammers and the buzzing saws of the construction crews finishing the S.F.B. Morse Fine Arts Center and the new library, boys are arriving from throughout the United States and from a dozen foreign countries including Peru, Guam, Taiwan, Libya, Costa Rica, Saudi Arabia and Brazil.

Opening RLS's 17th year with 205 resident students and 90 day boys, the school's headmaster, Robert U. Ricklefs, reminisced to the September of 1952 when 18 young men comprised the total enrollment.

RLS has quickly earned a place of distinction in the field of secondary education, never varying from its original purpose of providing each student with the opportunity and guidance to successfully master the academic disciplines and to develop his abilities of personal integrity and leadership.

In addition to an expanded and intensified curriculum, the new year will include a Fine Arts Program featuring music, history, art history, painting and applied music. The Fine Arts Department will comprise Richard Petrsall, artist-in-residence, Lawrence Christiansen, director of music, and Rosemary Garrison, director of speech and drama.

An important new member of the faculty and staff is Wallace Goodwin, director of athletics. "Wally" was formerly the assistant director of athletics at the Western Reserve Academy in Hudson, Ohio.

Upon graduating high school in Connecticut, he became a member of the Navy Air V-5 Program at Tulane University. Returning from sea duty in 1946, Goodwin began a family which now includes two boys, Peter, 11, Teamy, 9, and Dog, Divot. Before joining the staff at Western Reserve Academy Goodwin played the PGA golf tour as an amateur and competed throughout the United States and Canada.

Speaking of his own philosophy of coaching, Wally says, "I have never been known as a conservative coach. I am a firm believer in upholding demanding training regulations, that personal sacrifice and application among the team members is vital, and that loyalty within the squad and coaching staff is one of the most essential factors for success.

"I believe in the importance of the unending job of the coach to work for his squad members and assistants on and off the field, and in the necessity of everyone within the framework of the school's or college's administration to support vocally all departments.

"From all this can come what we are after—the kind of student and player who is truthful, loyal, reverent, and appreciative ow what others have done for him and what he has done for others. I believe that the real 'star' I am trying to develop is the young man who uses his own personal abilities to further the recognition of others toward his team and his squad; that his own personal abilities should be made evident to his teammates through what he does for them and not for himself."

Wild Pig Sept. 21

The Department of Fish and Game reminds hunters the wild pig season in Monterey County opens Sept. 21 and will run through March 30 of next year. Elsewhere in the state there is no closed season, and wild pigs may be hunted throughout the year.

The opening of the wild pig season in Monterey County usually brings a flood of inquiries to Department of Fish and Game offices from persons who want to know when, where and how to hunt this animal. Here are some of the most frequently asked questions and the answers:

Q.—Where are wild pigs found in California?

A.—Wild pigs are found principally in Monterey County. Crosses of the European wild pig and feral domestic pigs are found in Monterey, Humboldt, Mendocino, Shasta, Siskiyou, Sonoma, Tehama, Trinity and Santa Barbara Counties.

Q.—Are there any public lands where wild pigs can be hunted?

A.—Yes, There are wild pigs in Los Padres National Forest, mainly in Monterey, San Louis Obispo and Santa Barbara Counties.

Q.—Are there any restrictions on weapons used to take wild pigs?

A.—Yes. Only the following weapons and ammunition may be used to take wild pigs: 1. Rifles using centerfire cartridges with softnose or expanding bullets; 2. bow and arrow, 3. shotguns firing single slugs; 4. muzzle-loading rifles; 5. pistols.

The Department suggests that persons interested in hunting wild pigs obtain copies of the hunting regulations from any license agent, or DFG office and review all of the regulations.

Helen Dooley Art Exhibit at UOP

An exhibition of paintings by Helen Dooley will be on display in the Art Center at the University of the Pacific from Sept. 28 through Oct. 19.

A member of the faculty of the University since 1948 Mrs. Dooley has resigned to devote full time to painting and to the operation of her own business, the Dooley Art Gallery in Carmel.

A reception will be held on Saturday evening, September 28, from 7:30 to 10:00 p.m. in the Pacific Art Center. The Art Center will be open from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Fridays, and from 12:00 noon to 6:00 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursdays.

Miss Dooley is well known throughout California. Her influence as a teacher and consultant has made meaningful contributions to the development of artists and teachers in this area. She concentrates on representational abstraction. Rhythm and color seem imbedded in her work bringing to life the innate qualities of natural form.

The exhibition will contain some 30 of her paintings, including 10 oils which she has painted for the University of the Pacific. These will be placed in the administration building.

The main theme of the exhibit is California landscape, though a few of the paintings refer to Mexico. The paintings are fairly realistic in content with a modern handling, occasionally becoming somewhat abstract.

Miss Dooley has won numerous prizes in exhibitions throughout the country. Her latest awards include $300 at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Association Annual Exhibition and the 1st award in oil and the 2nd in watercolor at the Seaside Art Festival. She is listed in "Who's Who in American Art," "Who's Who of American Women" and in the "Index of American Scholars."

MPVS - Pink Ladies Autumn Bazaar

In a giant effort to augment the Community Hospital Building Fund, two well known women's volunteer service organizations, the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services and the "Pink Ladies" of the Community Hospital Auxiliary, have joined forces, and will present a one-day Autumn Bazaar in the Monterey Fairgrounds Exhibit Building on Tuesday, October 22nd, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is a contribution to the Hospital Building Fund.

During the past twelve years, MPVS has earned over a quarter of a million dollars through its Thrift Shop sales and special projects, and distributed the monies where needed to best serve the interests of community welfare.

This joint effort for the Community Hospital Building Fund represents a sizable volunteer working force of inexhaustible, dedicated women. MPVS, with an active membership of approximately 170, has lately closed the books on another successful Annual Garden Tour Benefit for the Visiting Nurses Association, realizing $3,600 for their efforts; while the Hospital Auxiliary, a women's organization of 275 active members, supported by more than 1,000 associate members, recently added over $5,000 to the Community Hospital Building Fund through its annual project, the Concours d'Elegance. Weekly hospital in-service hours are required of the Auxiliary's active members in addition to time spent on fund raising projects.

The Autumn Bazaar will follow the same general pattern as the MPVS Flea Markets and Tombolas of the past.

Booths of autumn colors will make up the shopping arcade for the display of donated merchandise, both new and used. There will be Christmas creations, gourmet foods, treasures and antiques, clothing, hats and purses, jewelry, shoes, households, linens, sewing items, bedding and drapes, furniture, sports items and toys. Lunche food will be served at tables in the Snack Bar area and hot dogs, coffee and cola will be available from an outdoor stand.

Mrs. Howard Healey, President of MPVS, and Mrs. Merrill Passey, Auxiliary President, have had their project and committee chairmen at work for several months. Project chairmen for the year are Mrs. Archer Allen for MPVS, assisted by Mrs. Shirley Cutler, and Mrs. Jack Westland for the Auxiliary, assisted by Mrs. Elmer Yeomans.

Chairmen for the Autumn Bazaar project are as follows: MPVS, Mrs. C. W. Fisher; Auxiliary, Mrs. James Parks; General Assistant, Mrs. J. B. Farrior (MPVS Thrift Shop Chairman); Consultant, Mrs. Wm. C. Schultz (Auxiliary Treasurer); Mrs. Robert Ristau (MPVS Treasurer); Properties Chairman, Mrs. Laurids Jorgenson and Assistant Mrs. R. C. White of MPVS; Ticket sales Chairman and Co-Chairman, Miss Marion Eley and Mrs. Matt Smith (MPVS); Publicity Chairman and Co-Chairman, Mrs. Carl Albertus and Mrs. Charles Rau (Auxiliary), assisted by Mrs. Allan Craig (MPVS); Poster distribution chairman (MPVS) Mrs. Thurman Bane; Decorations Chairman (Auxiliary- Mrs. Barbara Tripp; and Merchandise Pick-up Chairman (Auxiliary) Mrs. C. R. Robinson.

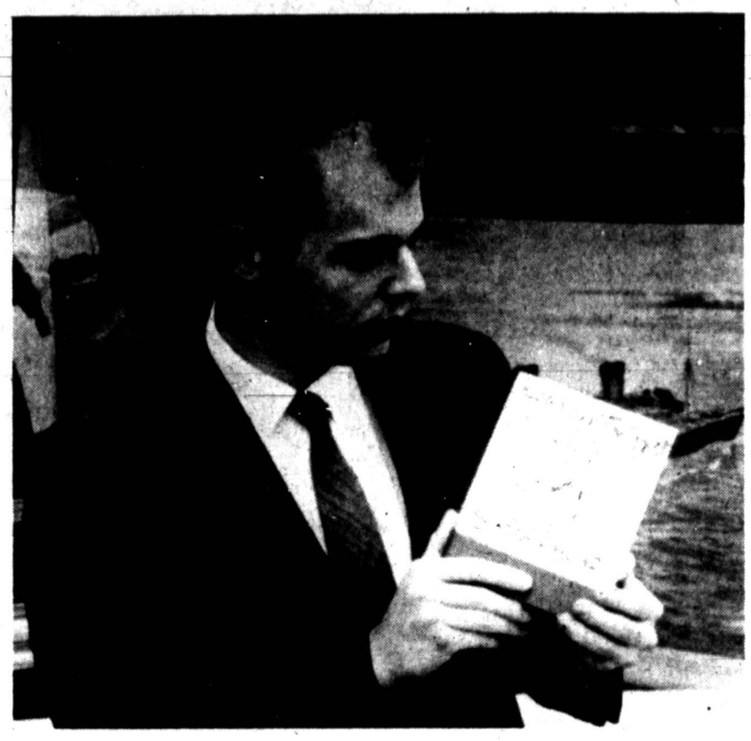
Booth Committee Chairmen for MPVS are: Mesdames, Clare Appleby, Arthur Dresser, Edwin Bidwell, Wm. H. Church, Boyd Newborn, Lawrence Kinsler, O. C. Peters, George E. Lee, Lonard Redfield, Harry L. Carpenter, Ellis P. Egan, Wm. F. Pratt, James Underhill and Miss Ruth Blanchard.

Booth Committee Chairmen for the Auxiliary: Mmes. Monte Harrington, Stephen Conran, Erward McMurtry, Carol McKenney, Wendell Coates, Luke Shields, George Macy, Francis Houghton, Church Chappell, Jack Matlock, Van Court Warren, Louis Hawley and Mrs. Barbara Haber.



Eric Norberg of Carmel, program chairman of K-WAVE stereo 96.9, radio station, holds the Community Chest Good Guy Award he received at the recent luncheon of Community Chest Volunteers. He was honored for his series of public service announcements publicising work done by Community Chest agencies.

MPGS Military Ball

Herrmann Hall, the former Hotel Del Monte which is now the Naval Postgraduate School's main administration building, will be the setting for the school's Military Ball on the evening of October 5.

Sponsored annually by the Officers' Wives Club, the 1968 ball is dedicated "To Men Who Serve." And because it is the biggest social even of the year, Navy custom will be observed with officers wearing the traditional Dress Blues, and their ladies in formal gowns. Foreign officers will wear the service dress uniform, and civilian guests are asked to wear tuxedos.

The gala event will open with cocktails at 6:00 p.m. in the lobby beyond the Quarterdeck, and dinner will follow at 7:00 p.m. in the Officer's Club dinning rooms. Dancing in the ballroom will begin at 9:00 p.m. to the music of the Twelfth Naval District Band.

The Wives Club has announced that the Child Care Center will be open until 1:30 a.m., but early reservations are required, as space is limited.

Persons interested in attending should purchase their tickets early, as the club can accommodate a maximum of only 225 couples for dinner, and 325 couples for dancing.

Jimmy Kaller to Star in Disney Movie

Robert J. Kaller, president of Galerie de Tours, took his family to Belgium and Holland this summer where he was given commissions to do appraising work.

They returned just in time for Jim to be selected to star in a Walt Disney of France film about a typical day in the life of an American boy.

Jimmy won out over the others suggested by Mrs. August (Genevieve) Armanasco because he was so American. He had spent two years in a bilingual school, Ecole Francais, in the East.

They shot scenes of Middle School where Jimmy goes to school, put on a football game there, and many of Jim's friends and their families are in the picture. Other pictures were taken around the Peninsula.

Then George Guignard, the Disney representative flew him down to Disneyland and they shot there for two days before flying him back.

All of Jim's friends at Middle School are looking forward to seeing the film which should be out around Christmas time.

Jimmy Kaller, center, his sister Candy, left, his father, Robert J. Kaller, behind him, and his sister Kimberly, right, prepare to board a canal boat near Amsterdam assisted by the guide. Jim did not know then that he would soon star in a Disney movie.

Mrs. Sally Macpherson, Carmel chairman, greeted people at the door. Mrs. Monte (Kay) Harrington kept everyone informed of the progress of the girls plane from Los Angeles.

Fast. Faster than fast.

Recently we brought out a new BMW, the newest in a line that stretches back through 50 years of building great automobiles: the model 1600. That's it on the left.

When Car and Driver tested the 1600, with its magnificent engineering, superb appointments and 100-miles-per-hour cruising speed, they called it the best $2500 sedan they'd ever driven.

Now we've brought out another new BMW. That's the one on the right, and we call it the 2002.

This new car is the same beautifully-crafted sedan as the 1600, with one exception. It mounts our big, hairy-chested 2-litre engine.

Do you know what that means? Let Car and Driver tell you. The April 1968 issue of the magazine says, and we quote, "If the 1600 was the best $2500 sedan Car and Driver ever tested, the 2002 is most certainly the best $2850 sedan in the whole cotton-picking world!"

Want to see what a kick it is to drive the best $2850 sedan in the whole cotton-picking world? See Fred Snook's BMW of Monterey today.

Hawaii, Land of Contrast

Besides the more obvious contrasts such as mountains and seashore, Hawaii provides the ultimate contrast in living accommodations.

From the traditional "little grass shack" famed in song to the towering edifices of glass and steel is a mighty long jump, but the transition has been made.

Mr. and Mrs. James Doud of Carmel have recently purchased a condominium at Kahala Beach outside Honolulu. It is not far from the Kahala Hilton. They will divide their time between Del Mesa Carmel here and Kahala. By coincidence it is owned by Ralph Stean, a builder who used to be their neighbor on Hatton Road.

The Jack Pattersons who have a house on Scenic Drive also live in one of the condominiums.

Apparently there is quite a colony of former Carmelites who find the Hawaiian way of life attractive.

'Singles' Writer Speaks Friday

Emily Trapp, author of "A Single Point of View," is slated to give her sometimes controversial views on the art of being single at the next general meeting of Parents Without Partners on Friday, Sept. 27, at 8 p.m. at the Mark Thomas Inn.

Mrs. Trapp, a UCLA graduate, lives in San Diego where her articles on the single world appear in the San Diego Tribune. Divorced and the mother of two, she is founder and president of the Council of Clubs for Single People.

New Passport Regs Now In Effect

Clark M. Coppock, manager of the Carmel office of the Dick Phinney Travel Agency, called to say that new regulations governing passports are now in effect.

Passports are now good for five years and are not renewable.

When the passport expires now it will be necessary to make a completely new application just as though a new passport were being requested.

The price is $10 and should be paid by check or money order made out to the passport office. However, you can get them locally by paying a $2 in cash fee to the county clerk.

Passports may be obtained any day at the county offices in Salinas, but on Fridays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. with an hour out for lunch, passports may be obtained at Colton Hall, Room 3, in Monterey.

Iranian Bus No Flying Carpet

(The Reuben Johnsons have returned to Pebble Beach from their Middle Eastern tour, but the letters they have sent to the Pine Cone have generated so much interest we shall continue to print them as long as they last.)

We have just arrived by bus from Baghdad. What a trip! It took us 24 hours. We had plane tickets purchased but couldn't get a reservation out of there for I don't know how long. They are celebrating the New Year for 10 days. I can't even begin to explain the way the people live—mud houses, dirt, all women draped in black. I am such a curiosity with my light hair I feel uncomfortable.

Jamal hated to see us go by bus as he thought conditions bad. It was by bus or no way but we did find out how the other half live. We still live in the most wonderful country in the world.

Because of the war between Israel and the Arab countries they are antagonistic. We were well taken care of under Jamal's care. His folks and all his relatives have done more for us than you can imagine. We stayed in their home and they took us everywhere. We were entertained in every way possible.

Did I write while at the Baghdad Hotel there was the excitement of the President of Iraq and King of Bahrain meeting for dinner? Jamal came to get us just as the president drove up and the king was standing in the lobby. Jamal came on Wednesday and we stayed in his home until Monday. He did nothing but plan trips for us. His folks gave him their car and we went to old historical places.

One was an old ruins dating back to the 300's, of the world's highest and broadest arch made of bricks. The Bedouins are roaming people with big tents made out of camel's hair. They have herds of camels and sheep.

There was a huge tent here. We sat on rugs and pillows, all handmade, drinking small cups of strong coffee with cardamon seed flavoring. The air was balmy and birds singing. As we looked out over the ruins one could see the storks perched high on the arch. We enjoyed this experience very much.

The next day Jamal took us to a high tower of the 12th century. We walked up to the outside at least 300 feet. This was used to call people to pray. It wasn't so bad going up but scary coming down. That day it actually rained dirt—first a dust storm and then rain which turned into dirt.

Jamal has a very lovely family, including his aunts, uncles, etc. His sister lives in a beautiful home. They have a home adjoining a big estate which is located on the Tigris River, a big wide river. Mohammed Said, his uncle, took us to the old city of Babylon. We were taken to lunch at the former vacation palace of the king, which is located on the Euphrates River.

The news of President Johnson's intentions not to run have reached here. People dislike his policy in Vietnam everywhere we have been. The United States has lost many friends over this. It's still the best place to live—we have so much compared to people in the Middle East. They are miserably poor and beggars are everywhere.

This week they are going on pilgrimages mourning the death of Hussein back in 680, at which time he was assassinated. They have parades and punish themselves. On the bus were people returning to Teheran, Iran from a pilgrimage to Baghdad where one of the shrines is located. They bring pots and pans and food in bags, having vigils at the shrine.

We are looking forward to a visit from Jamal one of these days. Jamal is a nephew of Professor Said on the staff of the Army Language School, Monterey.

LOVELY LOAD—Persian rugs are the epitome of the rug-maker's art, and the ancient trade is still carried on in Iran as in centuries past. The beautiful rug on this man's shoulder is finished except for washing, and a special pool outside the city of Ray, near Teheran, is said to have special qualities.

FINAL SOAKING — Iranian workman swishes water through a finished Persian rug in a pool whose water is said to have qualities that impart a special softness to its nap. After the rug has dried, it is ready for market.

There's a great two-week vacation waiting for you this fall.

Pt. Lobos To Be Natural Landmark

Sacramento—Point Lobos State Reserve will receive national recognition on Sept. 20 when it is designated as a Registered Natural Landmark under a new program of the National Park Service.

The scenic Monterey coastal area is the first unit of the California State Park System to be so designated. It thus joins the ranks of such nationally renowned spots at Diamond Head in Hawaii, Grand Coulee in Washington, and Alaska's Lake George.

Previously registered areas in California include the Rancho La Brea tar pits in Los Angeles; the San Andreas Fault; the Elder Creek natural area in Mendocino County, and Rainbow Basin in the desert near Barstow.

Under the National Landmark program, areas picked for registration must possess exceptional value or quality in illustrating or interpreting the natural heritage of the nation, and must be essentially unspoiled.

Pt. Lobos, which has been called "the greatest meeting of land and water in the world," is maintained by the State as an inviolate reserve for protection of the Monterey cypresses and other landscape features, as well as for the sea otters, seabirds, and other creatures of the Pacific shoreline. It also contains the first underwater reserve in the nation.

The dedication plaque will be unveiled at 1 p.m. at the entrance to the park. The entrance will be closed to all but emergency traffic during the brief public ceremony.

Camelot: A splendid film version of the musical based on Arthurian legend which blends fantasy and touching realism. Outstanding performances.

Inspector Clouseau: Inspector Clouseau, first invented by director Blake Edwards and Peter Sellers, returns here in the hands of director Bud Yorkin and Alan Arkin. Clouseau is a French cop who is pompous, bumbling, and totally convinced of his own omniscience. This time he "aids" Scotland Yard in investigating a plot to rob six Swiss banks simultaneously. Frank Finlay, Patrick McGill and Beryl Reid are among the well-konwn English actors.

Far From the Madding Crowd—Beautiful three-hour adaptation of Thomas Hardy's melodramatic tale about willful young woman and her three suitors. Julie Christie, Alan Bates, Peter Finch, and Terrence Stamp turn in excellent performances against the rugged moody English landscape.

Where Angels Go -Trouble Follows!: Mother Superior Rosalind Russell and impetuous,progressive young nun Stella Stevens have their differences on a cross-country bus trip while taking some of their convent school girls to a California youth rally.

Producers: Zero Mostel and Gene Wilder star as a pair of shady Broadway producers. Their attempts to devise a deliberate flop (for money - making purposes) leads them to star a wild-eyed hippy in a ridiculous play called "Springtime for Hitler," written by an ex-Nazi. Hilarious comedy idea.

Grand Prix: John Frankenheimer's film for MGM, winner of three Academy Awards, tells a story of the rivalry among four racing drivers for the World Championship of Drivers in Formula I competition on nine high-speed circuits, from Monte Carlo to Mexico City. Frankenheimer photographed Grand Prix over a five-month period on the actual tracks across Europe.

Firecreek: Warner Bros.-Seven Arts' "Firecreek" teams two acting giants — James Stewart and Henry Fonda — along with beautiful Inger Stevens, in an action-filled drama of the Southwest of the early 1870's. Producer Philip Leacock and director Vincent McEveety also cast as co-stars Gary Lockwood, Dean Jagger, Ed Begley, Jay C. Flippen, Jack Elam, James Best and Barbara Luna.

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

"Artichoke Ingenuity"

Not so long ago learning to dechoke an artichoke was an adventure. It was daring to serve them without causing confusion at dinner parties. Today's fresh artichokes are accepted specialties on anyone's dining circuit. In our own area artichokes are again in abundance despite recent forays of rodents in Castroville's fields. Man's ingenuity won out, so we'll look forward to a goodly supply of coastal California's elite vegetable.

This past weekend our neighbor city celebrated its annual festival, and since it is known as the "Artichoke Capital of the U.S.A." "Party Plans" went around asking questions and obtaining usual recipes in order to now present exciting newer ways to serve forth this epicure's dream.

We'd like to emphasize that the best flavor and "meat" of artichokes is due to early Fall's light frosts which bronze-tip the outer leaves and prolong maturing. They do not have to remain green to be perfect. Spotlight the following chicken and artichoke combination at your next party. Be assured the choice of chicken and fresh artichokes, mushrooms, wine and broth with herbs brings this dish up to top company level.

California Chicken-Artichokes

Six fresh artichokes; 2 frying chickens, cut up; paprika, herbs, salt and pepper; 6 T. butter; ½ lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced; 2 T. flour; 2/3 cup chicken broth and dry sherry, each.

Remove about 3 layers of outer artichoke leaves; cut off stems and trim 2/3 from artichoke tops. Cut each in half; boil gently in 3 inches salted boiling water until tender. Drain and remove fuzzy portion carefully. Sprinkle chicken pieces with seasonings lightly; brown in 4 T. butter in large skillet.

Arrange chicken and artichokes in large shallow roasting pan. Add remaining butter and mushrooms to skillet and saute briefly. Stir in flour, gradually adding wine, herbs, broth. Bring just to a boil while stirring. Pour this over chicken and artichokes and bake, covered, in 375 F. oven about an hour, basting occasionally. Serve with fluffy rice. Amount given will make six servings.

For autumn's first bridge luncheon the following inspired dish is sufficient unto itself and is served individually at the bridge tables which simplifies the whole deal.

Artichoke Shrimp Salad

Eight artichokes; lemon juice and salt; 2 pkgs. frozen shrimp, cooked, or 2 cans shrimp, drained; 1 cup, each, chopped green celery with tops and green onions; 1 small jar pimiento strips; 2 T. capers; 1½ cups mayonnaise; ½ t. prepared horseradish; chicory and cherry tomatoes. Serves 8. Prepare the artichokes by removing tough outer stems, snip off tip with scissors and remove chokes. Boil in salted water with a garlic clove until stems are easily pierced with a fork. Turn upside down to drain and chill. Combine above ingredients excepting chicory and tomatoes. Fill artichokes with this mixture. Decorate plates with greens and tomatoes. Pass extra mayonnaise; giant pitted ripe olives and radish roses in large polished abalone shells. Hot buttered biscuits and chutney complete the delicious meal with tea or coffee.

Try these exotic dips at your next cocktail party:

Two pkgs. (3 oz., each,) cream cheese, softened; ½ cup finely chopped walnuts or almonds; ½ cup chopped pimiento-stuffed olives; light cream; cooked artichoke leaves or tiny tender raw ones marinated in olive oil; cayenne pepper and salt to taste; watercress.

Mix everything excepting artichoke leaves and watercress until a smooth dip is made. Chill and serve in a small bowl surrounded with artichoke leaves and watercress.

Dill-Cheese Dip

One cup cottage cheese; 1 pkg. cream cheese, softened; ½ cup grated Cheddar cheese; 1 T. finely chopped onion; ¼ cup chopped dill pickles; salt and paprika to taste; finely chopped fresh parsley.

Combine everything and blend well. Serve as a dip for cooked or raw artichoke leaves.

We may live without poetry, music and art;
We may live without conscience and live without heart;
We may live without friends; we may live without books;
But civilized man can not live without cooks.
He may live without books,
what is knowledge but grieving?
He may live without hope, what is hope but deceiving?
He may live without love, what is passion but pining?
But where is the man that can live without dining?

Wyndham Tells of Power Of Thoughts, Prayer

Thinking is something that we all do. How well do we do it, though, and what is the standard for good thinking?

"Listening for the thoughts which flow from God is surely the essence of true thinking," a Christian Science lecturer said here Monday, Sept. 16.

John H. Wyndham, C.S.G., of Los Angeles, told his audience that worthwhile living depends on thinking that has been brought into accord with an expresses the qualities of God.

The lecture was given at the Christian Science Church, and was sponsored by First Church of Christ, Scientist. It was called "Do We Think, or Just Think We Think?" Mr. Wyndham is on tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

He gave a striking example from his own life experience of the value and even the necessity of thought that is based on a knowledge of God.

At one time in his life he was taken as a prisoner of war. He soon realized that his life was in danger, since his captors suspected him of being a spy.

"The realization of this brought me to my knees, and I prayed to God to be spared the experience of execution, promising that I would live my life to serve Him," he said.

The answer, Mr. Wyndham said, came to him as a clear instruction from God to control his own thought. The instruction, he said, meant praying "deeply, spiritually." Rather than just ask God for help, he said he began to refuse to let fearful, hateful, and resentful suggestions enter his thinking.

He was placed in solitary confinement for several months in a cell without a bed. In addition to enduring extremes of cold and heat, he spent one week without any food and only one drink of water, he said.

"As wrong suggestions were barred from entering my thinking, divine thoughts began flooding my consciousness," he recalled. This constant prayerful activity over a period of months met both his mental and physical needs.

"I glimpsd the truth of the Biblical statement, '. . . in him we live, and move, and have our being'" (Acts 17.28) he said.

Despite periodic interrogations, he gained a deep sense of peace and calm, no longer feeling surrounded by enemies. At this point he began to see all, in reality, as under the control of God."

In time he was sent to a regular prisoner-of-war compound where he was well treated until his release.

Continuing his discussion of the relation between thinking and listening, Mr. Wyndham said: "Jesus' whole life was a prayer, a prayer of listening. Jesus always listened to the Father."

He explained that in Christian Science the term Christ is used not only as a title for Jesus but also as a term for man's true identity as the image of God, which Jesus presented so completely. This Christly view of man's true nature, he said, is available at all times and in all places to heal and save. It is the Christ, he said, that "enables us to listen to God and receive divine guidance."

Access to God's thoughts, Mr. Wyndham continued, comes from establishing a proper relationship to God. The dominant theme of the Bible, he said, especially the New Testament, is man's relationship to God. "Jesus showed God's relationship to us to be that of Father and beloved child," he continued.

Men must vigorously entertain the good thoughts from God, Mr. Wyndham said, if they are to defend themselves from the brainwashing of evil suggestions. He singled out some types of advertising as examples of thought manipulation.

Evil suggestions, he said, lead to acceptance of the belief that there are many minds. Christian Science, on the other hand, teaches that there is only one Mind, God, who "sends forth pure and wholesome thoughts . . ." that are not determined by material conditions.

In closing Mr. Wyndham said that it is never too late to begin prayerful thinking based on God. Disease considered to be incurable, he explained, can be healed on this basis, as can wider problems such as racial strife and war.

Christian Science Lesson 'Matter'

This week's lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches is titled "Matter." One of the selections from the Bible is this verse from Zechariah: "Be silent, O all flesh, before the Lord: for he is raised up out of his holy habitation."

Also included are passages from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, among them the following: "The understanding, even in a degree, of the divine All-power destroys fear, and plants the feet in the true path,—the path which leads to the house built without hands 'eternal in the heavens.'"

Taxes Return

Carmel will receive more than $5,800 in gasoline and cigarette taxes as an apportionment for the month of August.

The announcement was made by the state controller Houston I. Flournoy, who indicated that the apportionment of the cigarette tax was made under a new system adopted in July whereby half of the sum is based on local sales tax ratio and half on the population ratio.

Highway taxes returned $3,191 to Carmel, and cigarette taxes accounted for $2,633.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE RADIO PROGRAM

"Overcoming Fear of Recrring Disease" is the title of the program to be broadcast this Sunday KGO at 7:15 a.m. and KRML at 7:45 a.m. This is part of the regular Christian Science radio series "The Bible Speaks to You." For those who fear returning to normal activity lest a dread disease recur, this program directs attention to Bible concepts which show how one can gain freedom from fear and disease.

Vietnamese Teacher Bitter At VC, War, Even Life

by Steve Gann

(Steve Gann is a local photographer and writer who has recently returned to Carmel from Vietnam, more or less unscathed. While in Vietnam, he furnished the Pine Cone with several stories of his impressions and experiences. Others will run later.)

"I asked myself, when will this awful situation be finished, and we can get back to a routine life in Hue?"

Hoang Thien Dung, 20, an orphan from Hue, sat coaching her young pupils and pausing every few minutes to relate how she happened to be at St. Paul de Chartres, a Catholic nursery and orphanage in Danang. She was a student in Hue at the time of the Tet offensive.

About the petite young teacher, gathered in twos and threes, were her students waiting to read the lesson of the day. Like all little ones they were more involved with playing, jumping about and poking one another than the seemingly confusing, if not boring, routine of letters and words. But Hoang would only have to level her eyes, indicating displeasure at a particularly disruptive pupil, and order would momentarily again be restored.

"Our room was hit by a shell of 85mm and a wall collapsed; all my clothes, mosquito net, blankets, and sheets were torn off. I ran and took refuge near a pile of rice bags in a corner.

"After that, I ran away into the house of the Sisters. I didn't bring anything with me. Their house had been all destroyed too, everybody decided to run under the rain of bullets to take refuge in the third floor of the Tuberculosis Center.

"But as soon as we started into the street a mortar landed at the front door with a big explosion, fortunately nobody died, but we had some lightly wounded, everybody was terribly frightened."

Before Hoang could continue she had to speak sharply to one little boy, probably four or five, who desired more attention than could be afforded. Many of the 2,400 children at St. Paul de Chartres are without parents, having been abandoned in back streets and gardens. And in a land wrecked by war, love and affection have their limitations and endurance and human suffering apparently not.

"An American soldier came at this time to accompany us;" Hoang's tight lips quivered for a moment, as she attempted to recall her bitter days in Hue. "He took me by the hand and led us all to the Tuberculosis Center, but when he came back, a VC from the second floor shot him in the head."

The Americans, other than paying with their lives, have done much to help the St. Paul de Chartres orphanage and school. By donating clothes, food, toys and money, the kids are kept from a disease ridden, sewer experience. By receiving scrap wood, the staff have made such items as tables, desks, chairs and doors; and the Americans continue to help whenever possible.

"My sister Thoai was so weak that she could not walk; an American took her in his car and drove her, while other persons had to walk. The Americans with the car led the group; the distance was not very far but we met a great deal of danger before we could reach the new spot, because the VC continued to shoot at us."

Hoang stopped speaking, as she marked a lesson book, and mildly scolded a squatting dark eyed pupil at her knee.

"Dead bodies from the population and VC were scattered everywhere in the streets, and became ill-smelling; big rats, dogs, cats and other animals ate them in a terrible manner."

"The owner of a wealthy drugstore died in his house. His money was scattered all over his house like leaves in the forest, and many bold people entered and picked up all, and they took tin cans to contain the coins. Actually, if a person is very bold he can become rich because new cars, new scooters and bicycles were abandoned in the shops. Everybody could take as many as they wished. And rice in many warehouses too was to become common property."

With a sudden flash of anger, surprisingly strong from such an innocent looking face, Hoang recalled how the VC took over the schools and hospitals, thinking they would be ideal hiding places. But airplanes threw many bombs on them and many buildings collapsed.

The young Vietnamese girl looked away, such images bringing back thoughts she had tried hard to forget. It would be difficult to place the trim, fragile beauty in the middle of the shattered city of Hue.

"While 15 days passed, I had to sleep on the ground, eat rice and salt, I never knew all my life a misery so great."

(The quotes here are exact. Her words have a certain Vietnamese flavor, although they may be difficult to understand as far as sentence construction is concerned.)

RECESS—There is little jumping and running among the children of Hoang's class at recess. The restricted diet of South Vietnam, where in most cases the only protein is "nuc mom" a fermented fish sauce, is reflected in the sometimes lethargic actions of the normally noisy, shouting children.

ROTARY SCHOLARSHIP

Wayfarer Names New Director

Mrs. Robert E. Prince, who was born in Michigan and who has a B.S. in Religious Education from the Bangor Theological Seminary in Bangor, Maine, is the new director of religious education at the Church of the Wayfarer.

She is the wife of an Air Force lieutenant colonel now stationed in Greenland.

Mrs. Prince and 15-year-old son Philip, a sophomore at Carmel High School, are making their home in Carmel during the overseas tour of Colonel Prince. Other members of the Prince family include two married daughters residing in San Jose, and another daughter now attending the University of Maine.

There has been a vacancy in the office of director of religious education at the Church of the Wayfarer since the Rev. Eugene Brackney was transfered last spring to the pastorate of another Methodist Church.

Reviews for Young Readers

By Allene Fremier

This week we are short on new books, so let me tell you about a few new ones and a few "oldies but goodies."

THE DUNKARD, by George Selden is a new one. It's Grown-up day at George Thompson's school, and each child is to bring a grown-up to school who has a certain job, and they show the children about their job. George is tired of firemen, doctors and policemen being brought in. Last year he brought a hobo, but his teacher would not let him bring him into the room. So, after much searching, he finds a "dunkard." He used to be an office worker, but found that he was cut out to be a dunkard.

" 'Oh, dunking is a joyous thing,
A genuine delight.
It makes you want to laugh and sing.
I dunk both day and night! "

The dunkard dunks everything — lettuce in salad dressing, hot dogs in mustard, jello in whipped cream. At first, Miss Brill is very nervous when the dunkard comes in. But she is finally won over by his philosophy and his sincerity when he says:

" 'A solemn study is this dunking,
A grave and glorious art.
It's not just splashing and kerplunking,
It must come from the heart.' "

The dunkard and George got first prize and then everyone went to the cafeteria and had hamburgers—"which you can dunk in a little puddle of ketchup on your plate." This is a good one for the whole family.

Now for an oldie! BENEATH THE OAK TREE, by Nathan Zimelman is a soft-color delight. There is no story, except to encourage children to look around them. It begins by saying: "The time to look is now, before you have grown up. For only those who believe can see. And only children believe." A child might not select this one by himself but its a good one to read with him, perhaps reading it outdoors, in order to try the book's suggestions.

Another new one is FOCUS THE BRIGHT LAND, by Elisabeth Hamilton Friermood. This is for the older young readers. The reason for it being in the column today is that it attracted my notice because it goes out as soon as it comes in. It is a story of Victoria Bodkin, the only girl in a family of photographers. It takes place in the Midwest in 1881. Vicky has an opportunity to travel with her brothers for the summer and uses it to learn more about photography, and also to meet a photographer named Dave Rivers, adding the romantic element.

Don't forget we have lots of books with school assignments in mind, so let us help your child to complete his schoolwork.

Circular Beds Big San Simeon Hit

Carmelite Charles Lunt and his associates have just completed a most successful spring and summer season with their new 61-unit motel, the Green Tree Inn, at San Simeon.

Lunt is especially pleased with the fact that many of the guests stayed for a week or more and a sizable percentage were honeymoon couples.

He has several honeymoon suites with circular beds, an extremely popular feature, and plans to refurnish additional suites in a similar manner. The Green Tree Inn also offers the "Garden Room," an enclosed and roofed-in pool and lounging area.

Lunt has been a real estate and mortgage loan broker, general contractor and motel owner on the Monterey Peninsula for more than 20 years, and still maintains his base of operation in Carmel.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

I am reading Colonel de Camp's letter with its plea for a national holiday to honor the Constitution. . . .

From my humble point of view the Constitution has recently been the object of so much "fenagling" that I am not sure just where I stand. . . .

Crooks, the underworld, the guilty—hippies—the unclean, the unshorn, the unkempt — the barefooted — have all hidden behind the claim for and with Constitutional rights.

Until we clean up this situation and the unclean too, I think we should go slowly on instituting another holiday.

A second suggestion is that if this could be combined with the new proposal for calendar reform such as having all holidays on Monday so as to reduce the midweek absenteeism and associated confusion that would be worth considering.

Holidays should be meaningful and contribute something to our understanding. Just another holiday is not enough, our Independence Day, July 4th too often is just another day in which to maim and kill and run riot . . . holiday slaughter. Let's not add to that already undesirable mess.

But, I've written enough if you have read this far, thanks for listening. Col. DeCamp's idea deserves thoughtful consideration — but Very thoughtful consideration. . . .

Humbly.
Alice Pierce Desch
Carmel

Editor Pine Cone:

I have read with interest Col. de Camp's plea for recognition of the Constitution by making its day a holiday.

WELL—

We have so many holidays now that we are prone to become akin to the nations—no names mentioned—who have holidays and holy-days —ad libitum—and ad nauseum . . .

If Col. de Camp will agree to a combination—say combining Indpendence Day—July 4th—and his Constitution Day I'd go along—

Moving the day is of small moment—Queen Elizabeth of England moves the celebration of her birthday to suit the weather — the example of such a glorious Lady should be good enuf for us—

So—OKAY— Constitution Day—and Independence Day — together — all in favor please stand up and sing the Star Spangled Banner———Ovation.

Seriously,
Walter J. Roth

HOPPED-UP INVESTORS
It's hard to satisfy their needs — when so few units are available. We have placed three investors in units this month by actual count, and the fourth is on paper waiting for assured acceptance. We need more multiple units for exchange or sale. We can help you "out"—by putting another investor "in." Tell us what multiple units you have now, please, as all sizes are moving.

SCARCE
Motels aren't like "hen's teeth"—they can be found. It's the motel owner ready to exchange or sell, even in off season, that's scarce. Help us out, will you? Solution: your property — our investors.

WHERE'S THAT COASTAL TRAILER PARK? One patient party has persisted for several months, insisting we find one in exchange for some real good San Benacio acreage with several income units. Even if you don't own one, but know of one for sale or exchange, we will appreciate your call.

SUPERB OCEAN AND VALLEY VIEW from a traditional home on three quarters of an acre—with the Mission, Point Lobos and mountain view from every room! Forty-foot living-dining area. 15'x20' master bedroom, guest room, den, compact modern kitchen, and the most relaxing view patio we have ever seen. The extra heavy shake roof and other expensive refinements reflect the $95,000 spent on this home in 1964 and that is the price today to settle an estate. Exclusive listing.

LARGE, INFORMAL RUSTIC-INTERIOR HOME on a secluded acre in Rancho Rio Vista with lovely oaks and a mountain outlook. Step-down living room with beamed ceiling and adobe wall fireplace, large step-down den with Swedish fireplace, family room-kitchen combination, three bedrooms, two baths, large detached workshop, lots of storage. Charmingly different. $62,500. Exclusive.

IMMACULATE FAMILY HOME—On a quiet cul-de-sac in South Carmel Hills, this three-bedroom home has a large flat-beamed living room with dining area and a 15x19-foot Early American style family kitchen with new electric built-ins and a brick fireplace-barbecue. Central entrance hall, no cross traffic, large yard with many improvements. Beautiful carpeting and draperies. A fine home for $40,000.

TOO LATE FOR A CARMEL BARGAIN? Not true! We've an excellent ¼-acre lot with Valley views of which the owner says, "SELL IT." Want to try $9,000?

TWO HOMES FOR LEASE, each at $175 a month. Both have carpeting, stove, drapes and refrigerator. One has 2 bedrooms and the other has 3 small bedrooms. Sorry, owners say no children or pets.

IT'S HARD FOR THE OWNERS TO DRAG themselves away from the dramatic Coast view—south to Point Sur and north to Point Lobos. But when they do, they find a lovely living room, separate dining room and sparkling kitchen to enjoy. Three bedrooms, 2 baths and even shop space are there too—all for only $53,500 and we urge you to see this one now! It's an immaculate home with many dividends.

SEPTEMBER IS SUN AND SEA DUST

Now come the warm and sunny days of our year with the surf beginning to build for its autumn crescendo out there in that incredibly blue Pacific, and with the late afternoons welcoming the fluffy fingers of sea dust which drift lazily in to hover in the canyons in chiffon-scarf mists quite unlike the all pervading fogs of the coastal summers. Now is the time to select your vantage point for the great fall show of sun, surf and sea, and incidentally be in time to witness the late fall migration of the whales. Now, in other words, is the time for you to think about Carmel Highlands.

ONLY $49,500

buys a beautiful, beautiful ocean view, an acre of lovely pines to frame the view, a delightful 3-bedroom, 2-bath home nearly new, from which to see it all. We hate to be trite and say that it's the bargain of the year, but—well—it's the bargain of the year!

FOR $53,500 ON SPINDRIFT ROAD, that incomparable lane which winds its way off the Scenic Coast Highway and back again—hardly ever anything for sale there. Lucky you! We have a charming Mediterranean—not a huge one, just a nice, manageable size and 3 bedrooms, 2 baths (one set on a separate level). If you like interesting master bedrooms, here's a delicious one. You can look at the sea OR watch the last rosy embers in the corner brick fireplace—all from bed! Mail you a photo?

RIGHT ON THE OCEAN'S EDGE

Not only a fine rustic California ranch style home (3 bedrooms, 2 baths, enchanting entry court) but also a separate guest house or studio built right down on the rocks by the tide pools. This one is in the Carmel Riviera and is just $82,500. Send you a brochure?

A FAIRY-TALE VIEW

From way up high in the pines. This is the home of the interesting materials—redwood, mostly stone interior walls. Vaulted ceilings, shake roof, hundreds of wonderful ideas in built-ins and decorating. It has 2 bedrooms, 2 baths and a den, it's priced at $80,000, and it's a privilege and a treat to show you.

ACQUIRE YOUR LOT NOW

Because there really aren't very many good view lots left. We have an exceptionally nice one, with a very woodsy aspect and a fine view down to the ocean and Malpaso Canyon. It could be a real joy to plan your home for this site, even though you're not quite ready to build. The price is only $21,500 and we invite you to compare with anything else on the market in the area.

City Council Meeting

No. 1, north and south of the Carmel River and of the Carmel Valley Road. Notably missing from the report, was consideration of any new land-fill site inside the city limits — such as, for example, half-hidden, seriously eroded beach embankments.

While it was pointed out by Councilman Blanks that the "existing corporation yard" facilities at the new police-public-works building site at Junipero & 4th, were "OK for now ," it might eventually happen, he said, that annexations could substantially increase the size of the incorporated city of Carmel, and if this occurred, the "present corporation yard would be inadequate." Meanwhile, he added, "any new land-fill site should be sufficient to serve also as a future corporation yard."

In view of this stated lack of urgency with regard to the possible acquisition of a new corporation yard, it would be conceivable that the location and use of a new land-fill site, preferably nearby, would substantially solve the most pressing city problem, while at the same time eliminating costly long-distance hauling of every day's street debris accumulations, such as leaves, branches, soil.

In addition to the direction given Bayless, to seek to determine costs, as well answers to related questions, with regard to a possible land-fill site on the Fish Ranch, he was also told at the same time to "continue investigation of alternate sites." Bayless himself pointed out that he simply will "seek answrs" without specifically committing the Council to any definite future action. Following this, the existing Council ad hoc committee will bring the matter before the full Council at a later date.

In other matters at last night's meeting ,the Council: Denied the request of Howard Jackson to subordinate the City's "first deed of trust" on the former police station property at Mission & 7th.

Designated the Mayor as the City's voting representative at next month's League of California Cities Annual Conference.

Agreed to purchase a room air-conditioning unit for use in the City Hall at a cost of $440.

Employed Robert Tate as the city's first full-time city forester.

Directed Bayless to prepare, as Councilman Falge put it, "a strong resolution" to urge the State Legislature to refuse to pass new laws to allow, as Mayor Laiolo described it, "huge triple-trailer trucks" on the state's highways.

Teachers Hired by School Board

Mrs. Joan Scannell from San Jose Schools will teach primary grades at Woods School; Miss Catherine Westmoreland from Garden Grove Schools, elementary grades at Tularcitos.

Thomas W. Wood from Fresno Schools will teach Industrial Arts at the high school.

The purchase of a new lawn mowing tractor which can be operated hydraulically by one person and which can be driven 40 miles per hour down the highway, was approved.

Padres Crunch Junipero, 40-0

Carmel high school fielded a football juggernaut last Saturday, and before the afternoon was over, the Padres had blanked Junipero Memorial high school 40-0.

Carmel coach Bob Walthour and Monty Feekes, new athletic director have spent the week readying their charges for next Saturday's meeting with a strong Alisal high school in Salinas.

The Padres scored the first time they got their hands on the ball, with a trio of running backs— Greg Campbell, Mark Spindler and Rusty Vandervort — spearheading a devastating attack directed by Quarterback Mal Hall.

From the first touchdown, it was all Padre, a doubled repitition of the junior varsity 20-0 victory over Junipero.

Clark Exhibit at Zantman's

Attendance at the Zantman Galleries exhibition of Robert Clark paintings has been most rewarding, and this outstanding show is a resounding success.

Owners of Clark's paintings have flown to Carmel from Seattle, Miami, New York and other remote places to see this most interesting collection.

Three of the paintings on exhibition are owned by Norton Simon whose activities in the field of art have earned for him renown as a collector. Norton reputedly paid $2 million for a Rembrandt and $300,000 for a Corot in recent months. His ownership of three Clark paintings is indeed a compliment to the artist.

Among local patrons Mrs. S. F. B. Morse is the owner of a Clark painting.

Robert Clark paints in the rare and difficult medium of egg tempera. An emulsion of egg yolk, water and dry, colored pigments is painted on an inflexible, gesso-coated panel.

Clark's paintings exhibit the extreme care and depth of emotion of this thoroughly trained artist.

Planners Hear New Sub-Divider Plans

The Carmel Planning Commission was asked at its meeting ysterday afternoon to hear two sub-division proposals concerning properties outside Carmel's city limits but well within the three-mile distance from those city limits which state law defines as the outer boundaries of a city's "planning area".

While the city's planners cannot take definitive action in such matters, they are asked for their views by the County Planning Commission which has the specific power to act.

The first proposal was presented by Harry Bell, who spoke for Carmel Rancho, Inc. He described his company's "Carmel Lago" project, a 120-unit apartment complex, located some distance east of highway No. 1, north of the Carmel River but generally opposite the Mission Fields area. The Bell proposal was referred to the Planning Commission's Land Use committee for further study.

The second proposal was described to the Commission by Donald Goodhue, of Hall & Goodhue, who called his planned development, "Carmel Center," and said that it would include a restaurant, bank and theatre. Planners were favorably impressed by this proposal, and voted to order Planning Director John Riling to convey their views to the County Commission.

Carmel's adopted "Master Plan, passed into law by the City Council, Feb. 4, 1959, stated that there should be no more than a 7-acre neighborhood shopping in the entire area bounded on three sides by the Carmel Valley Road, Highway No. 1, and the Carmel River. County disregard for this city's Master Plan through the years, has already produced a large shopping center many times the size of the one Carmel city planning envisaged there. This complex includes the sites where the now proposed Carmel Lago and Carmel Center are being considered.
